

STEP 6: On Response of the Application.

If on a response, the applicant finds any discrepancy in what is stated on paper and the actual situation, he/she can escalate the case to senior officers or the Anti Corruption Bureau (ACB) or the Lok Ayukta or even file a Public Interest Litigation (PIL) with the court. If the problem can be solved, the government official is likely to rectify the problem before responding, in order to cover up any evidence of wrongdoing or having to penalize an officer of his/her department. The applicant should read the information submitted carefully and check the same against ground realities and then proceed to Step 7.
